WESTERN AUSTRALIAN
Electoral Commission

Legislative Assembly

1. FORMALITY OF LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY BALLOT PAPERS

1.1 Informal Ballot Papers

Ballot papers are informal when:

- totally blank;
- the number '1' appears against two or more names;
- two or more names have been left unnumbered; or
- marked in any way by which the voter can be identified, e.g. the voter may have signed or initialled the ballot paper.

Alterations to the numbers do not make a ballot paper informal provided the voter's intention is clear.

1.2 Challenge by Scrutineers

If a ballot paper is challenged by a scrutineer, under section 138 of the Electoral Act, 1907 the ballot paper is endorsed on the back as 'admitted' or 'rejected' and initialled by the Polling Place Manager.

Subsequently, determining the formality or otherwise of any ballot paper is the responsibility of the Returning Officer and may only be varied by a Court of Disputed Returns.

Examples of ballot papers are on the following pages.

INFORMAL –Ballot paper has been initialled.

2.2.2 Informal Candidate Preference Votes (right-hand side marked only)

Legislative Council ballot papers are informal if the preferentially numbered right-hand side has been used and:

- the number 1 does not appear against any candidate’s name (a tick or cross is not acceptable unless the order of preferences is clear);
- any number is repeated against two or more candidates’ names; or
- more than the last preference is missing.

Note: Alterations to the numbers do not make a ballot paper informal providing the voter’s intention is clear.

2.2.3 Left and Right Side Both Marked

Where a voter has used both the ticket side and the preferentially numbered side, the ballot paper is treated as follows:

- when both left and right sides are marked correctly (the ballot paper is formal), count the candidate preference side;
- when only one side is formal, count the formal side; and
- when both sides are informal, the ballot paper is informal.

2.3 Challenges by Scrutineers

If a ballot paper is challenged by a scrutineer, under section 138, the ballot paper is endorsed on the back as ‘admitted’ or ‘rejected’ and initialled by the Polling Place Manager.

Subsequently, determining the formality or otherwise of any ballot paper is the responsibility of the Regional Returning Officer and may only be varied by a Court of Disputed Returns.

Examples of ballot papers are on the following pages.

- a tick (✓) appears more than once; or
- a cross (x) appears more than once.

Note:The number 1 by itself, a tick (✓) by itself or a cross (x) by itself is formal.

2. FORMALITY OF LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL BALLOT PAPERS

2.1 Marking Legislative Council Ballot Papers

Voters are given two options. They may indicate their vote:

- by marking a preference mark against only one of the squares on the left-hand side of the ballot paper; or
- by marking the number 1 and consecutive numbers against all the remaining candidates on the right-hand side of the ballot paper.

On election night the Legislative Council Count consists of a check of first preferences.

2.2 Informal Ballot Papers

Legislative Council ballot papers are informal when:

- totally blank; or
- marked in any way by which the voter can be identified, e.g. the voter may have signed the ballot paper and this signature or initials identifies the voter.

2.2.1 Informal Ticket Votes (left-hand side marked only)

Legislative Council ticket vote ballot papers are informal when two or more preference marks are shown on the left-hand side of the ballot paper.

For example:

- the number 1 appears more than once;
- the number 1 in combination with a cross (x) or a tick (✓) appears;
- a tick (✓) and a cross (x) appear;
